Toronto, August 13, 2007 — Canadians looking for work or a career change are sure not to miss Job Fair 2007, held at Centennial College's Progress Campus on Thursday, Sept. 27. More than 90 local and national employers are expected to attend this highly focused one-day recruitment event, drawing 5,000 attendees.

With more than 100 full-time programs, Centennial College prides itself on the calibre of its graduate workforce that is ready, able and willing to work immediately. Graduates are skilled in a broad range of areas, including business administration, finance, marketing, retail, hospitality, media and communications, biotechnology, engineering technology, health care, automotive trades, manufacturing and more.

Employers will be able to meet talented people face-to-face, and connect quickly with serious candidates interested in full-time, contract, summer, co-op, volunteer and part-time work. The job fair will also be open to the general public; anyone looking for work can attend for free.
